

PUBLICATIONS: JOURNAL ARTICLES, BOOK REVIEWS, AND INTERVIEWS

Jerry W. Valentine, Ph.D.
Professor, Department of Educational Leadership and Policy Analysis
Director, Middle Level Leadership Center
211 Hill Hall
University of Missouri-Columbia
Columbia, Missouri 65211

“The WPA and Louisiana Education,” Louisiana History, Baton Rouge, Louisiana: Louisiana State University Press, 13:391-395, December, 1972.

“What You Say Does Make a Difference: A View of Administrative Verbal Behavior,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary Principals, 59: 67-74, December, 1975 (Jerry Valentine with Bradford L. Tate, Alan T. Seagren and John A. Lammel). Reprinted in The Second Handbook on Organizational Development in Schools, Schmuck, Runkel, Arends, Arends, Mayfield Publishing Company, Palo Alto, California, pp. 136-42, 1977. Cited in Best of ERIC, Volume II, pp. 34-5, 1979.

“The Supervisory Process: A Practical Look,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, 62:55-59, December, 1978.

“Preparing Your Assistant For the Principalship,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, 64:40-43, May, 1980.

“Principals Recipe for Success As a Communicator,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, 64:32, May, 1980.

“A Model For Administrative Verbal Behavior,” School Administrators Association of New York State Journal, Albany, New York: School Administrators Association of New York State, 10:9-14, Winter, 1980.

“Do Your Teachers Really Understand You?” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, 65:34-38, May, 1981.

“Effecting Principal Growth Through Organization Development,” Educational Considerations, Manhattan, Kansas: Kansas State University, 8:35-39, Winter, 1981.

“Principal Communication Across Grade Levels: A Comparative and Predictive Study,” Planning and Changing, Normal, Illinois: Illinois State University, 11:189-196, Winter, 1981 (Jerry Valentine with Edwin Rawn).

“Middle Level Educational Programs: Making the Ideal a Reality,” Schools in the Middle, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, Vol. 1 No. 2, June, 1981 (Jerry Valentine with Don Clark).

“Audit of Administrator Communication: Instrumentation for Researcher and Practitioner,” Peabody Journal of Education, Nashville, Tennessee: Peabody College of Vanderbilt University, 59:1-10, October, 1981.

“Middle Schools for the Eighties: Programmatic Characteristics” Middle School Journal, Fairborn, Ohio: National Middle School Association, 12: 26-30, November, 1981 (Jerry Valentine with Thomas E. Moeller).

“Effective Principals’ Principles,” The Transescent, Rolla, Missouri: Missouri Middle School Association, 5:5-7, February, 1982.

The Exemplary Middle School, Book review for the Journal of Early Adolescence, Tucson, Arizona: H.E.L.P. Books, Inc., Spring, 1984.

“A National Study of Schools in the Middle: Perspectives on Five Issues,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, 68:12-18, September, 1984.

“Teacher Perceptions of Administrator Dress,” The Clearing House, Washington, D.C.: Heldref Publications, 58:60-62, October, 1984 (Jerry Valentine with Frank Fischel).

“Performance Based Teacher Evaluation, Implications for Missouri Schools,” Missouri Schools, Jefferson City, Missouri: Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, an Interview with Jerry W. Valentine by James L. Morris, Editor, 50:6-10, November, 1984.

“Applying the Steps in the Teaching Process,” Missouri Schools, Jefferson City, Missouri: Missouri Department of Elementary and Secondary Education, 51:18-20, September, 1985.

“National Study of Schools in the Middle,” Middle School Journal, Columbus, Ohio: National Middle School Association, 16:12-17, August, 1985 (Jerry Valentine with Micki M. Kirkham).

“Assessing Principal Non-verbal Communication,” Educational Research Quarterly, Los Angeles: University of Southern California, 3:60-68, October, 1986 (Jerry Valentine with Pat Stephens).

“The Effective Middle Level Principal,” The Journal of Early Adolescence, Tucson, Arizona: H. E. L. P. Publications, Inc., April, 1987.

“Computer Assisted Learning in Middle Level Social Studies,” The Transescent, Rolla, Missouri: Missouri Middle School Association, September, 1987 (Jerry Valentine with Steve Schoonover and Doug Wright).

“The Audit of Principal Effectiveness: Instrumentation for Feedback and Self Improvement,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, 72: 18-26, May, 1988 (Jerry Valentine with Michael Bowman).

“Transescent’s Physical, Social and Emotional Development,” The Transescent, St. Louis, Missouri: Missouri Middle School Association, February, 1989 (Jerry Valentine with Delores Stegner).

“Strategies for Faculty Involvement in Effective Schools,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, 73: 1-6, March, 1989 (Jerry Valentine with Ted Garten).

“Principal Effectiveness in Nationally Recognized and Randomly Selected Schools,” Record in Educational Administration and Supervision, Dayton, Ohio: Wright State University Fall/Winter, 1990 (Jerry Valentine with Michael L. Bowman).

“Missouri Junior High Schools: A Look at Interdisciplinary Teaming,” The Transescent, St. Louis, Missouri: Missouri Middle School Association, February, 1991 (Jerry Valentine with Lisa Bethel).

“Changing Grade Patterns in Missouri Middle Level Education, 1970-1990,” The Transescent, St. Louis, Missouri: Missouri Middle School Association, February, 1991 (Jerry Valentine with Lisa Bethel).

“Effective Principal, Effective School: Does Research Support the Assumption,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, December, 1991 (Jerry Valentine with Michael L. Bowman).

“Middle Level Certification--An Encouraging Evolution,” Middle School Journal, Columbus, Ohio: National Middle School Association, November, 1992 (Jerry Valentine with Dana C. Mogar).

“Middle School Programs in Missouri,” The Transescent, St. Louis, Missouri: Missouri Middle School Association, November, 1992 (Jerry Valentine with Todd Whitaker and Dean Vazis).

“How do you rate? How Effective School Leaders Involve Staff Members,” Schools in the Middle, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, November, 1993 (Jerry Valentine with Todd Whitaker).

Restructuring the Middle Level School: Implications for School Leaders, Book review for the Middle Ground, Columbus, Ohio: National Middle School Association, Summer, 1994.

“Essential Elements of a ‘True’ Middle School: What Should Be vs. What Is,” Middle School Journal, Columbus, Ohio: National Middle School Association, September, 1994 (Jerry Valentine with Judith Irvin and Donald Clark).

Restructuring the Middle Level School: Implications for School Leaders, Book review for the Schools in the Middle, Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals, September, 1994.

“The Relationship between Organizational Characteristics and Expected Benefits in Interdisciplinary Teams,” Research in Middle Level Education Quarterly, Columbus, Ohio: National Middle School Association, (Vol. 19, No. 4, Summer, 1996) (Jerry Valentine with Bob Steffes).

“Inclusion in Middle Schools,” NMSA Research Summary Series, Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (March, 1998). (Jerry Valentine with Tara Robertson)

“Designing an Effective Middle Level Schedule,” Middle School Journal, 29 (5) Columbus, Ohio: National Middle School Association, May, 1998 (Jerry Valentine with Donald Hackmann).

“Is Multi-age Grouping Beneficial to Middle School Students?” NMSA Research Summary Series, Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (October, 1998). (Jerry Valentine with Kathy Unrath and Tara Robertson)

“Creating Professional Communities in Schools Through Organizational Learning: An Evaluation of a School Improvement Process,” Educational Administration Quarterly, 35 (1) Columbia, Missouri: Ohio: University Council for Educational Administration, February, 1999. (Jerry Valentine with Jay Scribner, Karen Cockrell, and Dan Cockrell)

“The Changing Roles of Effective Middle Level Principals,” Middle School Journal, 30 (5) Columbus, Ohio: National Middle School Association, May, 1999. (Jerry Valentine with Carol Maher, David Quinn, and Judith Irvin).

“Middle school programmatic practices and student satisfaction with school,” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin. Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals (September, 1999). (Jerry Valentine with Joseph Gulino).

“Looking at the big-picture perspective: Understanding your school’s baseline status to improve effectiveness,” Schools in the Middle. Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals (September, 1999). (Jerry Valentine with Steve Gruenert, Bryan Painter, and David Quinn).

“What are appropriate assessment practices for middle school students?” NMSA Research Summary Series Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (December, 1999). (Jerry Valentine with Tara Robertson)

“What types of block schedules benefit middle level students?” NMSA Research Summary Series. Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (January, 2000). (Jerry Valentine with Karen Wunderlich, Tara Robertson)

“What are appropriate parent involvement practices to promote student academic success at the middle level?” NMSA Research Summary Series, Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (September, 2000). (Jerry Valentine with Ron Kettler)

“What impact does the use of technology have on middle level education, especially student achievement?” NMSA Research Summary Series. Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (July 2001). (Jerry Valentine with David Quinn)

“What grade configurations are best for middle level schools?” NMSA Research Summary Series, Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (January, 2002). (Jerry Valentine with Stephen Lucas)

“How many middle level schools exist in the U. S. and how many students attend middle level schools?” NMSA Research Summary Series. Columbus, OH: National Middle School Association. (January 2002). (Jerry Valentine with Mark Miles)

“In the middle with Jerry Valentine.” Principal Leadership. Reston, VA: National Association of Secondary School Principals, Reston, (January, 2002) (An editorial interview to discuss research and practice in the principalship and programs of middle level schools)

“Leaders and leadership in middle level education.” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin. Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals (June, 2002). (Jerry Valentine with Vicki Petzko, Donald Clark, Donald Hackmann, John Nori, and Stephen Lucas).

“Interdisciplinary teaming: National study findings reinforce important middle level practice.” National Association of Secondary School Principals Bulletin. Reston, Virginia: National Association of Secondary School Principals (September, 2002). (Jerry Valentine with Donald Hackmann, Vicki Petzko, Donald Clark, John Nori, and Stephen Lucas).

Frameworks for Continuous School Improvement: A Synthesis of Essential Concepts, Queensland Primary Principals Journal, Queensland, AU: Queensland Principals Association, (November, 2002) (reprinted by permission from ICP-Online).